These metal ion chelating agents have a significant influence on the human body. As useful agents for the therapy of nervous and cardiovascular diseases, these metal ion chelating agents are widely used after the acute toxicity of Fe has been reduced. On the other hand, as recent observation on the correlation between radiation damage in the human body by radiation and radiolytic damage of tissue due to free radicals produced by x-ray irradiation was made, development of agents which can reduce the damage caused by x-ray irradiation is urgently desired in medical field. The damage of tissue by x-ray radiation is a major issue for use of x-ray radiation in the medical field and development of such agents is urgent. The damage of tissue by x-ray radiation includes skin damage, tissue injury at the time of operation, radiation induced carcinogenesis, and the like. Among them, the tissue injury at the time of operation by x-ray radiation is a major concern for the surgeons. At present, most of the x-ray irradiation-induced injuries are caused by radical chain reaction of oxygen free radicals. It is known that at the initial stage of free radical reaction, oxidative reaction of lipid peroxide by free radical chain reaction is induced to give aldehyde, and the aldehyde gives cytotoxin peroxinitrite (OONOx2x88x92) and the peroxinitrite gives cytotoxin oxene such as hydroxyl radical, alkoxy and alkylperoxide (OOMxe2x88x92) by indirect or direct free radical
