Visit our website at: Qwant Corporation is a French company founded by Ludovic-Mohamed Kroll in 2009 to offer privacy oriented search engine for browsers. The company's goal is to offer a privacy oriented search engine by storing a minimal amount of data for each user. After the recent privacy scandal, it was revealed that Google uses the data to analyze web user activity and behavioral habits. As such, Qwant Corporation does not collect your personal data, and does not use it for any purposes, including behavioral analysis. To that end, the Qwant Corporation uses a token-based approach to hide from third-parties the search queries. On a side note, the token approach is the same approach that companies like DuckDuckGo use. As of May 2019, Qwant Corporation is the market leader for private search engine, offering services for all major browsers (Chrome, Safari, Firefox, Edge, and Internet Explorer). Qwant
