

Category:Toontrack Software Category:Sample-based audio softwareQ: How do I compare hash size with a fixed amount? I have an array of hashes where each hash contains a key and a value. There is this function to find a hash with a given value sub findhash{ my(%hash, $value) = @_; return undef unless @_ > 1; my $one = pop; my $two = $one; for ( $two->{$value} ) { print "$one\t\t$two\t\t$hash{$one}\t\t$value "; $one = $two; $two = $one; } return $two if exists $hash{$one}; return undef; } Now I want to find the hash that has a size of 5, the correct one is $hash{$one} = $two; The size should be one, because $two contains the correct value. How to do this? It does not have to be a smart way, since I am just comparing if a hash has a size of 5, all the other parts of the program is irrelevant. (I am using perl 5.10) A: For example: sub find_hash_with_size { my ( $size, %h ) = @_; return undef unless @_ > 1; my %h_copy = %h; for ( 1.. $size ) { $h_copy{ $_ } = () for keys %h; } return $h_copy; } Then use it like this: find_hash_with_size( 5, \%h ); EDIT: The more efficient way would be to avoid using an array reference and to use the pop with the hash key instead, like this: sub find_hash_with_size { my ( $size, %h ) = @
