Nov 6, 2018 .Government of Alberta The Government of Alberta is the executive branch of the government of the Canadian province of Alberta. As a province it has the full authority of the Canadian state, though it has few responsibilities outside of its jurisdiction. It derives its power from the Constitution Act, 1875, and the Statutes of Alberta, the source of its primary law. The same legislation sets out the government's constitutional duties and powers; it also sets out the responsibilities and duties of the legislative and judicial branches. The Government of Alberta consists of a number of main departments. There are a number of secondary and inter-departmental agencies; these are known as the organizations "within" the Government of Alberta. The government is led by the Lieutenant Governor of Alberta, who is also the head of 570a42141b
