The man was injured in the quake but has now made a remarkable recovery, having undergone more than 15 operations on his body, and Mr Whitelock's wife Shirley said her family was "very, very happy". The 61-year-old's injuries included a crushed arm, a shattered pelvis, broken ribs and a few blood vessels in his eye. A spokesman for WestCare Christchurch said the hospital was "still reeling" from the loss of 10,000 precious patient files, which went missing in the earthquake.Is it time to switch to the iPhone 5C? No, of course not. You're thinking of the wrong iPhone. The 5C isn't a miniprone, not by a long shot. The iPhone 5C is nothing more than a consolation prize. The 5C is the least horrible thing that Apple could have slapped out of its marketing wing and put on the market. But the 5C is also a lot of Samsung's work. It is an entertaining little toy that will give Apple a few more months at the top of the heap. The iPhone 5C was announced at the Apple retail store in Regent Street, London on November 11th, and I think it will be a great smartphone for £129. There are two exciting things about the 5C. First, it comes with the Apple-led financing model, with a purchase credit of £200 on a two-year contract. I wish every smartphone was like this. Second, the company has made a phone that will only cost £129. It's going to be cheap as chips. The 5C has a 5-inch screen, and though it's not a large screen, it's really 3da54e8ca3
