I am working on the CT-2 version that will be able to handle the Wx. I am using the CE-80 COSM-S protocol and as of right now I've already got it working with the CE-28 protocol as well. I have started coding the new CT-2 protocol. Hopefully it will be done by the time of the next meet. Thanks again. Michelle started having serious health issues. At the time, Annette had been married for just a few weeks, and she was beside herself with worry and pain. Her friend told her that Michelle was “having a miscarriage”; the term “maternal mortality” wasn’t commonly used. Annette had no idea how to deal with it. She cried. She cried a lot. But because Michelle was so close to Annette, she felt obligated to help her through this. They found a few doctors who examined Michelle and told Annette that there was no reason for her to be in so much pain and told her that Michelle could die from the pain and the blood loss. The only way to help her, they said, was to seek an abortion. Annette wept and cried even more. But Michelle didn't want to be stuck in a hospital, so she declined treatment. She didn't feel like she wanted to be pregnant anyway. Annette's friend had a similar experience years later. She and her husband were having marriage difficulties, and the couple didn't know what to do. The doctor told her to either have an abortion or get her tubes tied, and the woman wanted neither. Her doctor suggested that she go on antidepressants to help her cope with life's stressors. "I remember sitting there in that pregnancy test room at the hospital reading a pregnancy test," Annette tells me, "and I asked the nurse, 'Can you take that test away from me? I want to read it.' She said, 'Oh, you don't need to read it.'" The contrast between Annette's experiences and the advice she received from the experts can only be described as distressing.

And it's not hard to see why:
