A few other things you should consider installing as this changes the way your FSX looks.

By default, shockwave 3d lights will operate at the same power as all the lights on the aircraft. If you have installed the Shockwave Lights Redux V1.2a patch to FS9, a common issue is that the lights are bright enough to be difficult to see at certain low levels. Apr 14, 2009 Okay, so I have v1.2a installed and I've noticed that because the lights are so bright it is very difficult to distinguish any pilot from any other pilot in that sense of seeing on the ground. I have not installed any sort of 3d lighting plugins, lights, or does that need to be done? In FS9 I can get the 3d lights to operate in low light levels, however I have very little experience with this version of FS9 or the shockwave 3d lights.
