the highlands. Be prepared to face the challenges of a dungeon with over 500 rooms, score attacks, and cunning monsters. You will also find a variety of weapons and magic spells, plus mystical items to help your adventurer in his quest. The King's Vengeance features: - Roguelite gameplay with over 500 rooms. - Tactical turn-based battle system with 10 unique classes and dozens of skills. - A random dungeon generator. - Ability to replay the story from any of the class' unique perspective. - Loots, Achievements and all the classic party and rogue-lite game mechanics! Players: "A very good game" - Rock, Paper, Shotgun "Most roguelikes are all about managing resources. King's Vengeance is a great example of a game that mixes RPG elements into a full-fledged dungeon crawler, in the process turning you into a pseudo-RPG master over the course of a lengthy adventure." - Deimos "A really clever approach to the genre that uses very few skills and resources." -

JMP "King's Vengeance is probably one of the best total conversions I've played. When you first start, you're thrown into a sprawling dungeon with no guidance and nothing that breaks up the monotony, but once you master the mechanics and find your own personal pacing, the dungeons and the foes become a game unto themselves. For anything that's been racking up hours in Dishonored or XCOM, you should give King's Vengeance a shot." - ApeX

"King's Vengeance is a game all about dying to find that one ultimate gear item or permanent weapon that will help you win or save your life in a most hair-raising fashion." - Polygon

"It's the roguelite dungeon crawler to play in 2018." - GamesBeat

Features:

- Features roguelite elements including timed runs, multiple paths, permanent monsters and death.
- Skill Points add a tactical layer to your turn-based battles.
- Single Player Experience features a course of Nine Character Classes to unlock.
- Global and Local Multiplayer

It's a little more than a jigsaw puzzle game, but not much. You're basically given a compilation of varied puzzle pieces to put together. The bigger and/or better looking you can make your pieces, the more points you get, and the higher the number at the end of the level.1/10 5Lag I know loading screens take a lot of RAM, and this is a pretty basic, simple game. Thats not its fault, and it's not in the game to be the best looking game ever, so this one is a low mark.3/10 5OS - SMP - Light VR I just sat in VR, and it worked without issue. There are two other players in this room, although I havent had any communications with them, so I'm not sure if this works with multiple players.1/10 5OS - SMP - Heavy VR I just sat in VR, and it worked without 5Controls There are a total of 7 buttons on the Vive Controller, and whilst there is a fairly nice implementation of touchpad support, it doesnt work too well, as there are no on-screen buttons. Personally, I'd rather just have the extra butons implemented into the game aswell.1/10

5Immersion Considering this is a VR game, the lack of immersion was pretty appalling. It wasnt terrible, but it didnt bother me much, and didnt really seem like my brain was working in VR. It was the standard ghosting motion that every VR game suffers from, and even without that, the illusion is just not there. However, I could manage to suspend my disbelief for quite a while, even disregarding the lack of immersion.3/10

my time just wandering around in a giant room, looking at the walls, trying to figure out how to complete the levels. There's no puzzles, no secrets, and no narratives. It's a little bit like checking out a museum, only worse, as theres nothing to see unless you already have the level.2/10 5Difficulty Pretty tough. I'd easily estimate it to be the hardest game that I have played on the HTC Vive so far. It's not

In 2000, she joined Canada's national team, and quickly rose to prominence when she finished fourth at the Ironman Hawaii with an unofficial time of 6:03:31. She took a year off from competition in 2004. In 2005 she took two national titles, in her age category, and placed third in her first Ironman Canada. She won the Ottawa Triathlon the next year and took a second national title. Bowden's professional career began in 2011, when she finished fifth at the Ironman Canada. She placed third at the inaugural Ironman 70.3 Maple Bay, and won the overall title at the subsequent Ironman 70.3 Maple Bay. In 2012, she took her first professional international title at the Ironman Hawaii, winning the second-fastest time in the field (6:12:47). She was the second woman to win the overall race, and the second Canadian woman to do so. She won her first professional national title the same year. References
