By Shamus Burton, writing for The Guardian The government has proposed that jobseeker's allowance should be capped at an average of between £4,000 and £4,500 a month for those aged under 50. But new research by the Centre for Research on Socio-Cultural Change (CRESC) suggests the people who are already on the jobseeker's allowance are receiving more money than they are entitled to – and that younger, poorer people have the most to lose if a cap were imposed. The government has currently set a limit of £561.40 a week for jobseekers on benefits. At the moment, a couple with two children under the age of 16 can claim up to £520.60 a week, and single parents up to £325.50. According

I want to show a window (in my application) with the title as "Connecting to the server..." and want to make the window always on top in the system. I tried the following: `setCursor(Cursor.getPredefinedCursor(Cursor.WAIT_CURSOR));` and tried `ActionListener action1 = new ActionListener(){ public void actionPerformed(ActionEvent e){ System.out.println("Inside1"); setCursor(Cursor.getPredefinedCursor(Cursor.WAIT_CURSOR)); } }`; and wrote this code on the show method of JFrame. But this is not working. A: try this code. `JFrame frame = new JFrame(); frame.setAlwaysOnTop(true); frame.setAlwaysOnTop(false);` A: You should make your window a "javax.swing.JWindow" object and then try this - `mywindow = new javax.swing.JWindow(); mywindow.addWindowFocusListener(new java.awt.event.WindowFocusListener() { public void windowLostFocus(java.awt.event.WindowEvent evt) { // TODO Auto-generated method stub System.out.println("Inside1"); mywindow.setAlwaysOnTop(true); } public void windowGainedFocus(java.awt`

How to train drivers for a dog? How to train drivers for a dog? It is advisable that owners should not ever take the initiative to train their dog and to teach. First, it should be trained to select the time, thus, the owner should be able to come to the place where the dog is. The owner should be able to coordinate with the driver to arrive at the chosen site and then make sure the dog does not stray off. If the owner attempts to train, the dog should be taken to places where they cannot get away easily. A trial training period should be arranged so that the dog can be introduced to the person who will be driving the vehicle. They should be introduced in a humane way where the owner can assure the dog that it will not be harmed and it will be treated in a friendly manner and he may even show it some love. It should be assured that no one touches the dog during the introduction period
