"We're moving really fast, it's exciting, and we're looking forward to bringing it to fans." "We have such a large-scale plan for this year. We are creating the narrative that will serve as the backdrop for all of our titles, and all of our product teams are working on unique innovations and features across the range that will inspire our fans." Kotaku has a fuller statement from Gazillion co-founder and chief creative officer, Bill Roper: "Next week, we're opening up the studio to the world for the first time outside of Seattle. Over the next two weeks, I plan to spend some time speaking with our players at various major festivals and expos. We'll also unveil some upcoming projects on our social channels, which we're always eager to talk about with our fans. Over the next month, I look forward to meeting you and giving you a sneak peek at some of the exciting things we're working on." Features Key:

- New Authentic Player Kits: Deliver goals, shots, and crosses with the new FIFA Ultimate Team techniques of Fit and Tricks. The game allows you to fine-tune the look of a player's overall equipment by adjusting two fit and tricks settings.* Your player is aware of their limitations and will stick to playing styles they know work best for them - whether it's taking on the world with the agility and intelligence of a player with clever tricks or stopping the opposition from scoring with accurate headers. One of the most exciting features is the new animation control window which allows an adventurous user to choose the features of a player from their physical appearance to how they perform in tight spaces, the pace at which they run and sprint, to how aggressive they are when committing to physical challenges on the pitch.
- Move like Zlatan: Champions Lead the Way is in FIFA 22 with the unique "Neo Skill Transfer System" that allows players to seamlessly transfer their successes from FIFA 18 into FIFA 22. Every player has four new attributes that can be turned on or off, allowing for a deeper and more strategic experience. When combined with the inclusion of true, individual player behavioral factors that change how players use individual skills, the new skills of player control are applied to all players in a simulation while still being able to customize for each player, far better than in FIFA or FIFA 99. This not only transforms how a player travels the pitch, but changes how he plays, and the way his team acts, offering opponents a breadth of strategy. For example, while one player can pass in certain spaces by ducking and weaving, another player can dominate that space by going hard to the ball, intercepting passes, and winning the ball back outside of the player he's controlling. On the other end of the spectrum, their teammates follow more closely behind the players with the winning skillset, while drawing an opponent with a more defined strategy of using three basic passes to feed the ball wide, then drawing and passing again, before the goalkeeper is then forced to make a save. Both the play style and the underlying function of the team in more engaged and nuanced ways than ever.

- Revolutionary reinvention: The dynamic 4-6-1 system in this year's installment favours a four at the back strategy and advanced defensive principles so the ball carrier will face lesser numbers when undertaking the dribble or delivering the ball to teammates.
