Tiger Tank 59 I Mission Pack 076 now comes with the following new feature: The Great Battle Of Volskaya Pocket: Flying Battles In the last days of World War II there was one ultimate battle that could have changed the fate of Europe. The Germans believed that if they could control the Volsky Pocket in the south of Russia they would turn the tide of the war in the Eastern Front. They believed that with two Panzer armies in the pocket they could destroy the weakened Red Army forces. The battle raged for almost 3 months but it is this final battle that most people remember. Thousands of people fought on both sides as we head into one of the most epic campaigns of World War II. The German army planned on launching a large offensive that would push the Soviets back from the Black Sea coast and save their forces in the pocket from being destroyed. Instead the battle was a bloody nightmare that shocked everyone. According to the Germans the attack should have been a success. Instead the Soviet troops in the pocket would hold and in time crush the Wehrmacht's eastern flank. In the end the Germans suffered 2 and a half million casualties to the Soviets more than a million. There was no winner but both sides suffered terrible losses. Operation Konrad would begin on August 21st. The Panzer Grenadiers (Panzerschreck battalion) with their heavy tanks would advance on the Soviet positions at the gates of the Volsky pocket. At the same time they would push through the narrow central corridor that connected the pocket with the larger Kursk Pocket. Once in the corridor the Germans would begin to attack the main Soviet positions. The German advance was stopped at the gates of the Volsky Pocket. The Red Army was dug in with two fortified belts and artillery positions. The pocket also had a set of minefields and flooded trenches that made passage impossible. The Germans launched a series of heavy attacks and this led to heavy casualties. For the Germans the Soviet forces were simply immobile and impenetrable. On August 23rd the attack resumed. Fighting in the Volsky Pocket: If you look closely in the above photo you can see German tanks and infantry advancing on the south side of the pocket. These are part of the 9th Army advancing on the south side of the pocket. These are the Germans that would advance on both the western and eastern edges of the pocket. Frightful artillery preparation from the Red Army
