A portable full-featured program that is inspired by the electronic calculators and easy to use (no need to be technical). Do any calculations you know - you are just one click away from having the result. Attach notes and comments and share them with your friends. If you are a student or an employee and just need to make some quick calculations, RUC will be your best friend. So what are you waiting for? Let's do it! It's not just a calculator... Beyond the traditional numeric calculator functions, you can create tables, graphs, mathematical functions, etc., and a few of the features are available in only this app. As always, there are special functions just for use in a program - so for example, when you need to calculate a sum of numbers, you can add, subtract, find the differences, multiply, average, and so on. You can easily customize this program to work with your needs and preferences. For example, you can choose the speed and accuracy of the result, and configure buttons, menus, and styles of the display. You can even share your favorite calculations with your friends via e-mail or social networks, and access other users and their comments through chat. This can be an extremely useful personal or business application. You can add your notes in the "Notes" section and share them with other users. Besides the notes, you can add the new and famous "Quick Commands". Add up to 50 of them and use the keyboard shortcuts to work even faster and easier. For example, the first command will add two numbers, the next one will average them, the third one will subtract them, and so on. You can insert notes, determine the results as decimal, round them to four digits, etc. You can add the step values, as the number of decimals is adjustable. You can use exactly the same settings in other calculators or pen-based computers. You can adjust the decimal places and the number of the digit past the decimal point. You can change the font, the background, and the color. Setup menus
