Initial releaseQ: How to configure UAC to allow Windows Server 2008 R2 group policy client to access domain member's shares? I have a Windows Server 2008 R2 DC, and another server with Windows Server 2008 R2 domain member. The domain member is locked down to only running the group policy client used to configure the server, unless I manually remove it. The move was met with justified derision by some, particularly those who regard Farage as an opportunist and not something of a hero for Leave.EU's success. But equally there was widespread criticism that the Prime Minister's decision has been somewhat
