You need only to... The HMAV2.0 v2.2 is a hard drive booting program that works as an "image" of your computer's hard drive in memory, allowing you to save your personal or work data on any removable drive and any computer you can boot from. In the file menu you can save different "kernel" files with different and different drive letter you can boot from. with this program, you can make an image (disk image) of your hard drive, by using your windows CD/DVD R/W device. You can then use this image on any computer you can boot from. You can format your image (which is like an image on the image on the disk). You can then use this image on your other computer as it is the same to a original drive. You can use the image file for VMWare, or create an ISO file and use the image file in windows PE 4.x, or any other PE linux distribution. You can create an image of a partition of your disk, not only a partition of your disk. You can create a partition image of the disk. In this case, the image(disk) is an image of the partition of the disk. You can also create a disk image of a partition of the disk, not only a partition of the disk. You can format the partition image. When this image is booted, the partition's partitions are the same as a bootable image. This partition is just like a bootable image. When you use the partition image for vmware, the image file is the image of the partitions of the disk. You can create many partition images from 1 hard disk. You can clone partition images between disks. You can copy partition images to the same disk. You can create a bootable image file from the same partition image for each partition. You can create a bootable image file from any partition. You can boot an image on a different computer and see the Windows desktop. You can boot an image on a different computer and use the same program on the computer. You can create bootable partition image from image for each partition. You can clone partition images between disks. You can copy partition images to the same disk. You can create a bootable image file from the same partition image for each partition. You can create a bootable image file from any partition. You can boot an image on URL Blocker is a Windows application designed specifically for helping you block other users' access to certain websites on the breeze. Whether you want to make sure your children don't spend too much time playing games on the Internet or visit websites with inappropriate content for their age, or if you just want to protect your browsing time, URL Blocker can help you do so right away. URL Blocker is a lightweight Windows application built specifically for helping you block other users' access to certain websites on the breeze. It can be used as a parental control measure for making sure your children don't spend too much time playing games on the Internet or visiting webpages with inappropriate content for their age. Clean feature layout and basic functionality You are welcomed by a clean feature lineup that allows you to carry out most operations with minimal effort. Everything is kept as simple and clear as possible, so even rookies learn to master the entire process on the fly. The program comes packed with several dedicated parameters for helping you create a list with websites that are blocked. You need to simply input a valid URL in the dedicated panel and specify the time (in hours and minutes) and date. Additionally, the program lets you view how much time is left until the webpage is unblocked with the aid of a countdown timer. You can also set up a master password for making sure other users cannot access or modify the program's settings. Since it doesn't require much computer knowledge to set up the dedicated parameters, even rookies can master the entire process with minimum effort. Bottom line All in all, URL Blocker offers a simple software solution for helping you restrict other users' access to different websites in only a few steps, and set up a master password. The intuitive layout and lack of advanced features make it an ideal tool for less experienced users.
