Q: Dynamically assign ViewPager adapter to its subclass I'm using a ViewPager where I instantiate the ViewPager layout as PagerAdapter pagerAdapter = new PagerAdapter(getSupportFragmentManager()); I need to have different adapter for different fragments and those adapters should be implemented in a different class. I tried something like this: interface Fragment { // some methods } static class ParentFragment extends Fragment { @Override public Fragment newInstance() { return new Fragment(); } } public class PagerAdapter extends FragmentPagerAdapter { private Fragment mFragment; PagerAdapter(FragmentManager fm) { super(fm); } @Override public Fragment getItem(int position) { // I want to be able to set adapter based on fragment mFragment = ParentFragment.newInstance(); } } I want something like this: public class PagerAdapter extends FragmentPagerAdapter { private Fragment mFragment; public void setFragment(Fragment f) { mFragment = f; } } A: I am assuming the point of creating the PagerAdapter is to pass the Fragments to it? If thats the case your code would look like: public class FragmentsPagerAdapter extends FragmentPagerAdapter { private Fragment[] mFragments; public FragmentsPagerAdapter(FragmentManager fm, Fragment[] fragments) { super(fm); mFragments = fragments; } @Override public Fragment getItem(int position) { // I want to be able to set adapter based on fragment return mFragments[position]; }

What's New In?

We just picked up some apples and bananas from the farmers market on the way home, and we already have a batch of brown butter cider making in the crock pot. This is actually for my upcoming Fruit and Vegetable Supreme with Brown Butter Cider. I'm looking forward to using the apples, bananas, and walnuts in the crowning layer. Brown Butter Cider My Brown Butter Cider is a recipe I created by combining apple cider, brown sugar, and spices. Yield: 1-1/2 cups Active time: 1 hour Total time: 1 hour Ingredients 1 cup apple cider 1/4 cup brown sugar 2 cinnamon sticks 1/4 tsp. allspice 1/4 tsp. nutmeg 1/4 cup apple cider vinegar Preparation Add apple cider, brown sugar, cinnamon, allspice and nutmeg to a medium pot and bring to a boil over high heat. Immediately reduce heat to low, cover the pot, and let steep until reduced to 1/2 cup and syrupy, about 45 minutes. Remove the cinnamon sticks and strain the cider into a glass measuring cup, reserving the solids in a small bowl. Wipe the pot clean with a paper towel and return the pot to the stovetop over medium-high heat. Add the vinegar to the now-empty pot, bring to a boil, and cook until reduced by one-third, about 3 minutes. Remove the pot from the heat and discard the cinnamon sticks. Return the strained solids and the reduced cider back to the pot, cover, and let stand at room temperature until cool to the touch. Store in an airtight container in the refrigerator for up to 1 week. Recipe Notes If you are looking to use dark chocolate instead of white sugar, we found a chocolate syrup at Williams-Sonoma that you can use as a replacement (try it with our Dark Chocolate Cake with White Chocolate Ganache). For an extra step, sprinkle the lemon or lime zest on top of the Brown Butter Cider while the cider is still hot. I served this warm on top of some fresh grapes and a dollop of yogurt and it was perfect. I'd love to hear about some of your favorite ways to pair food and drink.
