Squidlit is a tribute to Game Boy games, and I am proud to present my first Game Boy emulation project. The source is available here, but it won't compile. I'm asking for help: Get the latest LSDJ version from here, get the source for Squidlit, and compile it for me! Oh, and please give Squidlit a rating on the play store. It'd mean a lot. And please don't miss the other videos of my other projects: Brainrix Final Fantasy Tiles Action Game Z Super Vilcek BigQuack I'll be posting more as I complete them, or add new ones if I ever think of some more projects I want to do! Squidlit has been successful in asking for a lot of help, in the form of donations to my GoFundMe account, and by pushing LSDJ out into the world. Thanks to everyone who makes Squidlit possible! This is the deepest recession since the great depression, that's the conclusion experts have come to after the latest report from the British Retail Consortium (BRC) for the second quarter of 2011. Last year there were only 3 days of retail sales growth after the Christmas trading period, due to high levels of customer debt and a lack of appropriate products on the high street. At the moment UK retail sales are growing by just 0.9% compared to last year, when in fact they grew by 3.5%. What about the creator? When we started this project, we didn't expect it to take so long. We wanted to get an early version of Maze Crusher for fun and to get some feedback from the community. After all we worked together on games before and we like to get to know each other again. We didn't want to let that happen at the expense of our vision of Maze Crusher and our time, so we decided to stick to our plan and delay the release. The result of this delay is: New Content The game has been updated to v1.0 and all of the new features are now implemented. For a first version there are a lot of new things. Therefore, we need to release the first version as a free upgrade to v0.9. Also, for the major update v1.0 you can't simply upgrade to v1.0 for free. We want you to get all the updates for this game for FREE! So what is the new content? What's coming in v1.0? New Maps We've added several new maps for you to play in this first version. There will be two kinds of maps. Most maps will follow a 'standard' maze structure where a path will be laid out (and made up) by the player. There will be some maps which are fully random, i.e. the path is randomly determined by you and not by the game. In v1.0 you'll also be able to play some special 'classic' maze maps which feature a more traditional obstacle structure (without the use of triggers) - be prepared for extra challenge! These maps are "only" for fun and will not be included in the full game. Still, you will be able to play these classic maps on an earlier version of the game (v0.9). And they will be added as free DLC in later versions. New Environments In v1.0, there will be five different types of environments. Each environment will have a specific theme or color to represent the theme of the environment. For example: Light - Colored in white Dark - Colored in black Green - Colored in a bright green Blue - Colored in a bright blue Orange - Colored in a bright orange I'm so happy about this! I can't wait to start playing! New Features In v1.0, you'll be able to

2 Necessity is the Mother of Invention. Where would the West be without the weapon it invented to protect it? And that might actually be a question to ask women around the world as they sit in a room, a plastic table, and a stark white ceiling. So many things happen, some we learn to value, some are just crazy. And a lot of those crazy things involve that which can't be defined in the simplest of words. I thought a D&D dragon would be a fun thing for people to try doing, and today's experiment is a Skill challenge. We start of by trying to see what level the character is designed for. This is my character, otherwise known as Arrow Guy (Balkan's mascot). If someone comes up and introduces themselves, tell the DM what skill you have, and lets start with level 1. DM skeleton: Okay, so a new character. So, tell us a bit about yourself, what's your background in the city? Arrow Guy: Well, I'm a pretty... I guess I'm a fair shot? laughter DM skeleton: Fair shot. Okay, what is your action right now? Arrow Guy: That's right, okay.... What is my background? Well, I am a noble class member from a prestigious family, and I inherited the family business of arrow-making. DM skeleton: Okay, fair enough, what area of expertise is your skillset? Arrow Guy: As long as I don't get tired? DM skeleton: Okay, so that's a myth. Cool, what is your goal? Arrow Guy: I want to be the best professional archer in all the city. DM skeleton: Okay, and what are the obstacles you are facing? Arrow Guy: The weapon can't hold a true measure of value, I lack funds to practice my shot, and there aren't enough dollars for me to train. DM skeleton: Okay, okay, and what are those going to be? Arrow Guy: Well the main thing is to get me a better weapon, but money for training is hard to come by. DM skeleton: Okay, so you are going to have to look into toolsmiths. And this is your background? And what background does that
