So I have a table called employees, and a table called work. The user will choose a quarter, and will have the ability to update the current record, or create a new one. I'm wondering if anyone has a quick way to do this. The way I'm thinking about it is updating the record with the new information if it's different than what's already in the database. Otherwise I'm going to create a new one. I'm not sure if there's a best approach to this, but I was thinking something like this: UPDATE employees SET currentworkquarter = (SELECT currentworkquarter WHERE ID = employee.id) WHERE ID = employee.id I could of course look up the ID in the employees table, but I don't think I'm getting SQL right, since I'm not sure how to combine it in one line. Any help would be appreciated. A: You just need to join your tables together: SELECT e.id FROM employees e JOIN work w ON w.employee_id = e.id JOIN workquarter q ON w.workquarter_id = q.id; See it in action: Since you want to update the current value, you can remove the q.currentworkquarter bit from the query: SELECT e.id FROM employees e JOIN work w ON w.employee_id = e.id JOIN workquarter q ON w.workquarter_id = q.id; This gives you a list of all of the employees with their current quarter. 0cc13bf012

This is pretty straightforward and works great and I have been using it in a simple form for a while now. I'm now trying to create a more complex nested use of this component to handle a page with horizontal scrolling. My use-case is I want to render the entire app into the layout component on the initial load of the app. This appears to be working great but it's when I'm trying to use the nested component that I'm having a bit of difficulty. Components nested are currently not being rendered Appears to work but the component is not rendering until I scroll it The "Company" component also appears to be as the fluid-component works as expected and should render only once on the page I have tried adding an else statement to the compiled component as I've read this might improve the situation but that did not fix my issue My parent component is a fluidContainer which is currently giving the page layout. I'm pretty sure my understanding of where the main path of rendering occurs is missing some crucial point. A: When I look at what's happening, it seems that at runtime (when the browser starts up) angular doesn't
