“HyperMotion Technology,” or HMT, is available at different levels in FIFA Ultimate Team, the Franchise Draft mode and the Matches mode. This article, which includes a video, is the second part of our FIFA 22 analysis, introducing new features and gameplay elements that are included in FIFA 22 Ultimate Team and the Matches mode. Stay tuned for more FIFA 22 in-depth analysis. New gameplay elements FIFA 22 introduces the new “Fake Out” feature, which allows players to feign a foul or injury after a tackle, without the player being shown committing a foul. Previously, a video replays showed the exact moment when the foul or injury happened on pitch, which made it easy for players to feign fouls and injuries. Now, the new “Fake Out” feature will only show the player receiving a foul or injury, without the video replays showing the exact moment of the foul or injury. The result is that players will now feign fouls and injuries in a more realistic way, as the replays will only show the player getting injured or fouled. The player will not get shown committing the foul, injury or feigning injury. This will further increase the realism of the matches, as the plays will be more believable. In addition, HMT allows the players to use the “Fake Out” feature in the game, even when the match is paused, without issues. Quick reverse running The new “Quick reverse running” feature will allow players to run backwards faster, as running backward is now made easier. The “Quick reverse running” feature is only available in the Matches mode. Here is how the “Quick reverse running” will work in the Matches mode: If the quick reverse running is enabled while the player is pressing the left or right stick to run backward, the player will run backward. If the quick reverse running is enabled while the player is pressing the left or right stick to run forward, the player will run forward. If the quick reverse running is not enabled or disabled while the player is pressing the left or right stick to run forward, the player will run forward. While running back, the player still can continue to press the left and right stick to shoot. If the quick reverse running is enabled when a player is driving backward and has the ball in his possession, the

Settle into the role of player or manager to command your ultimate team, and compete in the most intense Ultimate Team formats. Test your skills in new game-changing match types, such as Weekend League, or play alongside your friends in the new Friends Seasons mode. Also included in FIFA Ultimate Team is the ability to build your own player and club, with new options to make your custom players just like the pros, with great visuals and authentic motions. Gameplay FIFA 22 uses more realistic player movement and ball-orientation, allowing players to change direction more naturally and quickly when running with the ball. It also uses animation data from players to allow players to show subtle physical changes when moving with the ball. However, there are no player spins or fakes in FIFA 22. Also, the control styles in both defensive and attacking play are identical to FIFA 19. In the defensive, midfield and attacking play, there is a more natural movement of the body to prevent the ball from passing. In FIFA 19 the players spin horizontally and knock the ball away. New to FIFA 22 are 0.4 seconds aiming animations for in-game trigger events, allowing players to perform a number of complex movements, such as passing a long ball accurately or aiming for a precise cross using off-ball footwork. These new animations allow for faster interpretation of the available action, and also create easier feedback with a higher level of control. The player training video is now in-game and offers the player comprehensive assistance throughout the player's career. The impact of players' technique on how the ball moves can be judged in the full-body training videos. The precision of the player in the videos will also reflect on the live game. The player AI has been tuned for more realistic behaviour, especially during play out of possession. These changes focus more on how to evade the opposition than on attacking the goal, so the players respond in a more intelligent way as the game progresses. In addition, new camera angles offer a greater understanding of player behaviour. "In-game Player Voices" and "In-Game Commentaries" for new virtual assistant, "Shay", which is a new character on the game's Club and Leagues screens and is completely AI driven. She is a young football loving girl, whose job is to guide you through the game, talking to you, asking questions and giving you information you need to play well. New Commentary is also a fully integrated system, as the commentary has been

What's new:

- The Best Shots feature, created by humans, now includes sound effects for every goal, free kick, penalty, and extra time shot.
- FIFA Ultimate Team is now playable on PlayStation 4: the master league competition between all of your favorite players, complete with leaderboards and custom leagues.
- The new Player Impact Engine, originally introduced in FIFA 18, fully replicates the real-life impact footballers can have on a game of football. Scores of up to 400 percent impacts can now occur in the live game and your controller can detect these collapses, giving you 360-degree feedback for the player and the crowd as well as a feel of the impact as the ball makes contact.
- The Line of Sight Visibility System compensates for poor visibility conditions to make sure all actions on the pitch are clear.
- Online lobbies for the new live service are now called Territory.
- The Match Day Party addition to the new live service now supports enhanced match-day experiences. These include broadcasters and commentators, your opponents, a cheering squad, squad ID, and course navigation tools.
- You can now pick the referee through the in-game match operations hub.
- Career Mode: a full immersion experience allows you to play football as a pro, starting from the bottom of the youth system or seizing a place among the best of the elite, as you improve skills and rise to the top of the ladder.
