If you need a bigger font size, go to "Edit" then "View" and change the "Rows" or "Columns" text size to 16. Also, you can change the "Angle-axis cell height" setting so that the entire selection is not truncated. I don't see the problem at all! You can hide the horizontal scrollbar by holding down alt and dragging it. If you still have a problem, copy the 'rsxslx' file from the'scxslx' folder to the 'vba' folder. This will restore the extra menu options. Please let me know if I've missed something! A: This is caused by the workaround set up to force the length of the cells to a set number of characters. I am not sure what the exact commands that were executed were, but, take a look at the actual code in the workaround, the following statement is the one that should take care of the issue; int i =ActiveCell.RowIndex + 1; ActiveCell.Select; Selection.End(xIDown).Select; ActiveCell.Select; Selection.End(xIToRight).Select; If not, the workaround needs to be changed or deleted.
