I am using following query to get statistics data from database: EXEC sp_MSforeachtable @command1='SELECT TOP 100 [id],[date],count(*) FROM [DBA_Components] WHERE [date] >= @p_date GROUP BY [date], [id] ORDER BY [id]'; However, in some cases I am getting next error: Connection by destination address refused. Check that the correct.NET Framework version is installed and either enable remote kernel debugging or start the database engine with the same.NET Framework version. I am using SQL Server 2012 and I have enabled remote kernel debugging (using SQL Server 2012 Configuration Manager -> SQL Server Network configuration and right-click on "SQL Server Network Configuration" -> Properties -> Protocols for "All protocols" item). How do I get the right.NET Framework version? What do I have to change in order to fix the issue? Is this really the error, or am I missing some other steps? A: Connection by destination address refused i would check the datasource that this sql server needs. How do I get the right.NET Framework version? i think you should check the target SQl server SPConfig "Default.NET Framework Version" in your configuration. What do I have to change in order to fix the issue? checking the source sql server\instance on the remote sql server by connectionstring maybe? Q: Fill a Nested Dictionary from another dictionary I'm trying to fill a nested dictionary with some data from another dictionary. I have the following code: Dim data As New Dictionary(Of String, Dictionary(Of Integer, String))() Dim key1 As Integer = 11 Dim key2 As Integer = 12 Dim key3 As Integer = 13 Dim
