* Photoshop Elements (discussed in the next section): This free program enables you to create, edit, and enhance images of any kind. Use it to create, edit, and process simple and complex images. Images can be edited in many ways. You can cut, copy, and paste portions of other images onto your own image, add text, and even print them. But here's where it gets interesting. You can apply that same text to different elements in different parts of the image. * InDesign Adobe's page layout application lets you create professional-looking print pages, brochures, and even CDs and DVDs. With the help of other tools, you can get the job done with InDesign (the article on page 202 explains how to use InDesign to layout pages). You can also take advantage of the powerful visual features available with Adobe InDesign's switcher and multilayer tools to create beautiful images and layouts. * Illustrator Adobe Illustrator creates professional-quality vector graphics such as logos, line art, and illustrations. It is a good solution for designing corporate Web graphics and logos, creating cover designs for magazines and books, and even making graphic designs for advertising campaigns. Illustrator's powerful shapes and capabilities give you the ability to easily create 3D objects. * Flash Adobe Flash is a multimedia platform that enables you to embed multimedia content (such as videos and photos) into websites, Web pages, and online applications. You can also create PowerPoint presentations and publish photos to online news sites, like Flickr (www.flickr.com). With Flash you can produce rich animation, and manipulate images, video, sound, and text. ## Applying Creative Options You don't have to know everything about Photoshop to be a proficient user. You can make the majority of what you need to do for your hobby or commercial photography using the basic tools and features in Photoshop.

The Miami Heat came from behind to beat the Charlotte Hornets in the Eastern Conference Semifinals, 95-90. The win was the 7th out of 7 for the Heat this year as they enter the conference finals for the second year in a row with their second round match-up against the Indiana Pacers now set. LeBron James took over the game in the first quarter with 31 points, 6 assists and 7 rebounds. He was 6-16 from the field, 2-6 from three point land and 1-4 from the free throw line. He also added four rebounds and two steals. He hit all six free throw attempts, and only turned the ball over once. Chris Andersen added 18 points for the Heat, who only managed to get two clean looks at the basket in the first half. They were 10-25 for the game from the field. He also added five rebounds, a steal and a block. He hit a pair of free throws in the waning moments of the first half, and went 4-4 from the line. In the third quarter, George Hill lead the Hornets with 26 points on 10-14 shooting, adding four rebounds, an assist and a steal. He was 2-10 from the field, but the Heat still remained in the game by a score of 89-87. Four players finished in double figures for the Heat, the only four scoring more than 8 points. Dwyane Wade was the only Heat point guard who didn't score, but had seven assists. Josh McRoberts and Michael Beasley provided the bulk of the Heat offense with 17 and 10 points. Shane Battier ended with 14 points and 12 rebounds. The key to the game for the Heat was their ability to execute without LeBron James on the floor. The Heat defense was able to contain the Hornets bigs, limiting them to only 28 points on 11-28 shooting. The Heat now play the Pacers in the Eastern Conference Finals, with Game 1 set for May 1st. They play the series in Miami, so the Heat will still be home for Game 5. It should be an interesting series, as both the Pacers and Heat have the tendency to make for close games. — Follow this author on Twitter @marcodantinCourt of Appeals of the State of Georgia
