In the tafsir, there are "categories of interpretation" which determine when to switch lines in the text and when to elaborate a question or conclusion for the reader. An example is the meaning of the word "messenger" in surah 19. A tafsir may or may not include the commentary on the hadiths, the first textual criticism. Tafsir is of two main types, namely the translation and exegesis.

Tafseer is the Qur'an's interpretation in the Arabic language. The word "tafseer" comes from the verb fa'sala which means "to explain", "to interpret" or "to give an interpretation". The exegetic commentary of the Qur'an by as-Zahiri differed in content and style from Tafseer of al-Tabari; it covered only 2/3 of the Qur'an, compared to 1/2 covered by Tafseer of al-Tabari. Tafseer covers the meaning of the text in the Arabic language, based on the general exegesis principles of Sufism. Tafsir means to "explain", in the context of the Qur'an, explanation refers to those teachings of the Qur'an which can be compared to the verses of the Qur'an which are a reflection of the same mysteries. Tafsir is a general word, whereas the tafseer of the Qur'an (Arabic: tafsir al-Qur'an) is the verse-by-verse explanation of the Qur'an to an individual who is seeking such an explanation. A tafsir of a particular verse is called a "tafseer of the verse" (Arabic: tafsir al-Qur'an), a "tafsir of the two verses" (Arabic: tafsir as-Qur'an al-â€œan wa as-Qur'an al-â€œja) or of two verses (Arabic: tafsir as-Qur'an al-â€œlâ€œ)
