230 Cal.App.2d 760 (1964) THE PEOPLE, Plaintiff and Respondent, v. HOMER NELSON, Defendant and Appellant. Crim. No. 1523. California Court of Appeals. Fourth Dist. Feb. 19, 1964. James C. Monroe and John C. Padayao for Defendant and Appellant. Stanley Mosk, Attorney General, William E. James, Assistant Attorney General, and C. Stanley Hunter, Deputy Attorney General, for Plaintiff and Respondent. BRAY, P. J. Defendant was charged with four counts of forcible rape and four counts of kidnapping. He entered a plea of not guilty and not guilty by reason of insanity and was acquitted of all charges except the first four counts, i.e., forcible rape. The four former counts were then dismissed as to him, but the same allegations except for lack of sanity were made in the fifth count as to which he was found guilty by the jury. After his motion for a new trial was denied, he was sentenced. He appeals from the judgment. Defendant's first contention is that the trial court should have granted his motion to suppress evidence, a statement taken from him, and certain physical objects introduced in evidence against him. [1] The first count, which defendant was acquitted, charged him with forcibly compelling *762 the wife of William H. Draper (hereinafter Draper) to submit to an act of sexual intercourse. One of the acts charged against him in the other counts was also with Draper's wife. The conviction of first degree kidnapping with a rape as a concurrent offense was based upon taking Draper's wife from her home and placing her in a car with him so that he could take her to his home and commit the act of sexual intercourse. The facts were: Shortly after she married Draper, defendant forced her to become the paramour of himself and his wife. She is then a stepdaughter to his wife, now known as Mrs. Draper, and he and his wife live with them. After her marriage she was taken by him and his wife to his car, a 1956 Chevrolet, and by force and threats compelled to accompany them. The car was parked in a residential area in Long Beach near the burglarized home of a neighbor of Draper. The latter testified that he observed a man getting into Draper's car with his wife about 6 p.m. on the night of the burglary and that he made
