Made with a unique blend of natural and organic exfoliants, this soap is perfect for your daily scalp cleansing needs. Travelling with young children is often a disaster. We know that.

A good travel cot will make life better, and life with kids gets complicated fast.

They'll need time to sleep, you'll need time to sleep, and you'll need time to find out how to actually pack for a trip. My wife and I have discussed this with other parents who travel with kids, and the consensus is that a travel cot will make the difference between a really great trip and an absolutely dreadful one. So we decided to make one. My wife went on a sewing binge, I came up with a project plan, and we made it happen. We're not just making a travel cot — we're making a travel cot with special features. We're going to make it out of heavy, hard-wearing materials. It'll be robust and it'll last for years. It's a project for the long haul. No, I'm not going to show you pictures of the cot because it's not finished yet. In fact, I've never seen pictures of the finished cot, not even a prototype. It's always been a work-in-progress.
