New Autodesk 2016 Release 1 Update Premium.-pack of thermally activated chambers. The initial setting of the small inner chamber of the pack releases the compounds causing them to move toward the larger chamber where they are expelled. U.S. Pat. No. 5,210,166 discloses a thermally activated gellant which comprises an amine, a polymerizable acrylate, a thermally activated initiator and a process for making a gellant. The thermally activated initiator is the reaction product of an organic compound having at least one aliphatic carbon-carbon double bond with a cyclic polyether compound. The gellant can be found in U.S. Pat. Nos. 5,225,503 and 5,270,050. Despite the efforts to improve the properties of dental acrylic resins, a satisfactory dental restorative composition which exhibits good physical properties and adhesion to the tooth substrate has not heretofore been found. Accordingly, it is an object of this invention to provide an improved dental restorative composition which overcomes the aforementioned shortcomings. It is a further object to provide a dental restorative which is flowable and capable of being self-cured at room temperature. Yet another object is to provide a dental restorative which exhibits excellent physical properties, good adhesion to tooth
