SEO UAE English Learning Content I hope you can help me to get my problem solved. Thank you. A: I think that you have reached the end of the road with your php form. The server, upon submission, has sent your form data on to your form handler. A few more thoughts: The url of your form is "index.php?&qid=14" and I think it should be "index.php?action=view" You need to look into the action="" html attribute on your form tags to make them submit to the server what they are supposed to. So the form tag looks like this: And your current $qid="14" should be read as $action="view". Also, you need to add $action="view" to your php script, so it looks like this: if(isset($_GET['action'])){ $action=$_GET['action']; $qid=mysql_real_escape_string($_GET['qid']); }else{ $action="view"; $qid=mysql_real_escape_string($_REQUEST['qid']); } And this should be where you check that the action is actually "view" like so: if($action=="view"){ Add a new query called $qid to your mysql database. If your forms are going to be hosted as a web application you need to look into the MVC paradigm. The classic book of MVC is Head First PHP and MVC by David Walsh. Q: FTP connection is offline I have a website which works perfectly on localhost but as soon as I upload it to the live server (shared hosting) it fails to connect. The site is at and the ftp that I set up is at the root of the document folder and has a username and password set. I have tested the ftp connection by uploading a file and it works perfect but for some reason it fails to connect to the live server? EDIT: I checked the user's FTP connection and it was working fine 6d1f23a050
