Bancor is a utility token that helps bring smart contracts and dApps to Ethereum. A flexible blockchain for digital assets. Smart contracts. Decentralized exchanges. A fully decentralized digital currency. Bancor Protocol allows you to create a highly secure and fluid economy from your blockchain and ERC20 tokens, which can be traded for one another at the click of a button. Bancor Network. Bancor is a smart protocol with a self-balancing mechanism. When a network transaction is made, the smart contract automatically calculates the impact it has on the token price to establish a new equilibrium. This means that every token on the Bancor Network is automatically converted to a constantly maintaining network transaction. No more calculations or updates on the server side. Each time you transact on the network, you automatically get a new pair of currency when you trade one token for another. The automatic conversion allows users to realize the value of their BNT tokens by exchanging them for other token pairs, such as ADA,...., ETH or BNT's own ERC20 tokens on other networks. Unlike other blockchain networks, there is no need to invest or provide an initial capital. Thus it is possible to use the Bancor Protocol to introduce and launch a token on the network, as well as to remove tokens from the market when no longer needed. Bancor Token Description. Bancor was designed in 2014 by Eyal Wertheimer. In 2018 the team developed and implemented the Bancor Protocol, a smart contract that allows for the creation of a fully decentralized economy. The protocol executes the 6d1f23a050
