Legendary class mode pack.One-step synthesis of tetraazatriphenylene-embedded dinuclear gold(i) complexes and their application in the catalytic release of CO2 from formate. Novel dinuclear gold(i) complexes have been synthesized in high yield through a one-step procedure. The photophysical, electrochemical, and catalytic properties of these complexes show the strong effect of the tetraazatriphenylene linker on the structural and electronic features of the gold(i) center.The invention relates generally to low temperature and high temperature metal plated copper clad polymer substrates for electronic components and, more particularly, to a copper clad polymer substrate and method for producing the same, the substrate having a gold plated temperature resistant polymer intermediate layer, which metal layer can be removed after the substrates are fully processed. In the manufacture of electronic and electrical devices, it is desirable that the substrate materials be readily processed in electronic, thermal, and mechanical systems. It is known in the art to provide polymer materials with a thin metal layer, such as aluminum or gold, for use in electronic and electrical applications. For example, the polymer materials may be provided with a thin metal layer, such as aluminum, in order to provide good dielectric properties. 6d1f23a050
