We do not guarantee that our drivers work on your hardware. We recommend trying a trial version before installing the full version. Trial versions typically come with a setup program that guides you through the download and driver installation process. If the setup does not work, contact the driver manufacturer. Drivers may be available from the manufacturer. The setup utility will start after your driver has been successfully installed. Some users are required to click the Finish button when the setup program runs successfully. If the program fails to start, please remove your installation media and then restart your computer. No matter what file format your driver is in, Windows will try to determine what program to use to open it. If it is not in a format the computer recognizes, then it will prompt you to select the program you would like to use to open it. Click on the name of the program you would like to use. Most programs will appear in the Start menu on the Windows desktop. After clicking the name of your program, you will be prompted to select where to save the driver file. Usually, you will save the file in the program's default save location, but you may also browse to the folder where you wish to save it. Once saved, you can close the window. The program will then automatically start the driver installation process. Typically, the driver installation will begin automatically once the setup program is loaded. No action is required by the user during the driver installation process. While the driver installation is running, you will see a window that will inform you when the driver has been successfully installed. Click OK to close the window. If the driver was not successfully installed, you will be prompted to select the correct driver from a list of driver software matching your operating system.
