the best solution for the homeless is get them off the streets and get them off public lands. no option is available to them for housing, not even shelters. i tried to rent a bed for a friend last night. i tried to stay out of the homeless areas but the area i found housing does not allow homeless people to stay the night so i moved back to where i was living as i was willing to put up with the homeless and change my lifestyle to accommodate him for a few days, what a major sacrifice. the solution for the homeless should be simple. allow them to live in the ditches along the roads, in the little lakes by the intersections, and behind little walled off homes. if we raise that wall and open the gate to welcome the homeless, we will not have to deal with the 5 "daily" to every day homeless. we have a number of these buildings with a few plots left for rent, let the homeless live there and share the expenses. if they are afraid of other people, they can live in a box in the center of the parking lot and share a few blankets. the more people we bring into these areas, the less we have to deal with them, and the more chance we have to find and treat the mentally ill who join the ranks of homeless. of course, like others, i am very disappointed by the lack of implementation of what was such a good idea. thus far, the only thing that has really materialized is the virgin islands bitcoin crash where wealthy investors with little understanding of bitcoin are trying to recoup their lost funds. this is a bit like asking farmers to decide whether it is more important to grow wheat or be paid for it. there is a volatile element to the value of bitcoin. the lost investment is just the tip of the iceberg of this. 5ec8ef588b
