the license manager is a product feature that most of the programs use for their licensing, it is a part of flexim, a wrapper for the shared license. flexim is a server product that runs at the same time while other matlab products are being used. we cannot check each license at runtime, therefore, the license manager is used to check the license keys at runtime. it is the license manager that checks the validity of the license keys and then sends the info to the license servers for checking the validity. one problem you may run into if you are not familiar with this software is that you may not be able to start the program. we will get you through the installation of the license manager. the mathworks released an information page for the new license manager. the flex license manager must be run every time you start your computer, and it starts automatically when the matlab software is started. the license manager is available in the product license directory/directory on your computer. if you do not know where the directory is or have forgotten the directory, use the following command to get the directory: save path /etemp/matlab; the license manager is also accessible from the "help" menu of the mathworks products. this menu is on the left-hand side of the window. the flexim license manager is the only product license manager currently available for the mathworks products. it is a wrapper for the shared license. this information is necessary for any of your licenses. if you need to check your application, but you're not sure which version, go to the matlab flexim licensing page for more information - you will find the required version by going to the matlab license manager page - the application server will find the version of the version of your license and will be able to check the license using the information found in your license file. for more information, check the version number of your license file.
