Multicraft Control Panel Nulled Themes

Multicraft has a great interface that allows you to manage your settings easily. With this customizable server builder tool, you can configure a lot of things, including your server plugins, spawn-point, server rules, etc. McMyAdmin is a well-known hosting platform for Minecraft. Not only does it give the player the option of having a complete control panel, but they get to enjoy an entire platform where they can enjoy various other features as well.... However, according to most players, Multicraft is a better option for shared servers. We utilize Multicraft as our control panel and have implemented many modifications to make it unbelievably easy to control your game server hosting account on Minecraft, Ark, Rust, Valheim, CS:GO, Conan, Terraria, Unturned, Project Zomboid, Satisfactory, 7 Days to Die, Arma, Starbound, Eco, Leap, V Rising, The Forest and more. You can access the console, manage files, edit configurations, change server versions and more right from your web browser or mobile phone for all of your servers. There are many other intuitive features that make it easy to customize your Minecraft server and monitor performance with our user friendly panel. McMyAdmin has a unique server sleeping feature not found in any other control panel. It allows you to save resources by stopping the Minecraft server, but still be able to accept players. When a player connects, the server is woken up. The entire process is quick, seamless, fully automated, and turned on with just a single setting. I have been using mcadmin for a couple of years now, I have always wanted to find a darker or at least, more subdued theme for the control panel, but whenever I try to find a dark or sufficiently darkened theme, mcadmin always comes up with one that is kinda dark but not enough to make mcadmin look like an actual mcadmin control panel. Recently I have been searching for a dark mcadmin theme for a while now, and from what I have found out, the only other way to change the mcadmin control panel background colour is to either ask mcadmin themers to change the colour, or change the theme to something other than dark. I was wondering if anyone knows of any way to make mcadmin the control panel change its colour or at least the background colour, so as to have a more dark mcadmin theme?
